Scientific Social Responsibility Policy
(EEQ/2021/001116)

Organized by

School of Chemical and Materials Science
Indian Institute of Technology Goa
Farmagudi, Ponda – 403 401, Goa

Convener

Dr. Ravi Sankannavar

Assistant Professor

Chemical and Materials Engineering, IIT Goa

About the Workshop

This workshop aims to provide participants with insights into the applications of Electrochemical Engineering in Energy Conversion and Storage, a critical area for advancing sustainable energy technologies. The program will feature expert technical talks and hands-on practical sessions, offering participants a unique opportunity to enhance their understanding and practical skills in this emerging field of electrochemistry. Certificates will be issued to all registered participants upon successful completion of the workshop.

Who Can Apply?

Faculty members and Research scholars from academic institutions are eligible to apply; however, preference will be given to faculty members. To ensure an interactive and focused learning environment, the number of participants is limited to 25.
